StatFox NFL Power Rating Lines - Week 7

 The StatFox Power Ratings are determined from a formula that is takes into account several key factors, including point margins, difficulty of schedule, team statistics and more. The ratings are typically not as reactive as those you will find elsewhere, and thus prove to be a great long term handicapping tool. Here are the StatFox Power Rating lines and edges for this week's games, with our exclusive home field advantage points built into each home team's rating and corresponding line. Note that the point edge between the Power Rating Line and the actual opening line is denoted for the team with the edge. Use the W/L column to keep track of the winners and losers.

Statfox NFL Outplay Factor Rating Lines - Week 7

 The Outplay Factor Ratings made famous by StatFox are a great Team Strength Indicator as they provide a quantitative measure of how teams are outplaying (+ value) or being outplayed by (- value) their opponents. They are determined by a complicated formula that takes into account a team's points for/against as compared to how their previous opponents have fared. Here are the StatFox Team Outplay Factor Ratings and the corresponding game lines derived from them. Note that the point edge between the Outplay Factor Rating Line and the actual opening line is denoted for the team with the edge. Use the W/L column to keep track of the winners and losers.

GAME BREAKDOWN: The Niners have a chance to reassert their dominance over the NFC West. They've won 10 in a row SU at home versus division opponents (9-1 ATS), outscoring opponents 82-24 in three games under Jim Harbaugh a year ago. Both of these defenses have been outstanding early, though the red-hot 49ers offense was stumped by the Giants last week (as many points as interceptions: three). The Seahawks were held under 300 yards of offense in both meetings with San Francisco last year, but played the Niners close both times (San Fran covered at home thanks to two Ted Ginn return TDs in the final four minutes).

GAME BREAKDOWN: The Titans came to Buffalo last December and ran all over the Bills, with RB Chris Johnson going for 153 yards and two TDs on 23 carries. As a team, they had 187 and 6.0 YPC in a 23-17 win. The Bills have had trouble stopping the run again in 2012. Tennessee is coming off a more encouraging performance in beating the Steelers at home last Thursday, though they got a big boost from a blocked punt that led to a short TD. QB Matt Hasselbeck continues to be shaky under center (74.1 passer rating). The Bills are trying to find their way offensively, as they had only 306 yards of offense in last week's OT win in Arizona.

GAME BREAKDOWN: The Bucs got their offense going a bit last week in blowing out Kansas City. Now they have a chance to do it again versus the Saints' porous defense. Josh Freeman threw for an impressive 328 yards and three TDs on only 15 completions, and the running game added 145 against K.C. The Saints had the bye week to get their house further in order. They suffered an upset loss at Tampa last year, 26-20, when they turned it over four times and allowed Freeman to throw for 303 yards. New Orleans had lost now-suspended head coach Sean Payton to a leg injury on the sideline during that loss.

GAME BREAKDOWN: The Ravens are scraping by, winning four in a row SU while failing to cover in any of those games (winning by a combined total of 13 points). Now, they'll be without two of their key defensive players: LB Ray Lewis (triceps) and CB Lardarius Webb (ACL). Baltimore beat Houston twice last season, but both those games were in Baltimore. The Texans fell apart early last week, keeping two Packers drives alive with special teams penalties on fourth down, and having to throw away their game plan after trailing big. The Ravens' new uptempo offense has generated just 298 and 316 yards of offense the past two games.

GAME BREAKDOWN: Both these teams have looked surprisingly good of late despite being in a rebuilding phase. The Browns had played everyone close this year and finally broke through with an easy win over Cincinnati last week. The Colts continue to be without head coach Chuck Pagano, and after a comeback win over the Packers they were thoroughly outplayed on the road by the Jets last week. They generated just 298 yards of offense and turned it over four times while allowing 35 points to a punchless Jets offense.

QB Aaron Rodgers has now thrown for 13 TDs and just two INTs over the last three games. The Rams have made huge strides on defense in their first year under Jeff Fisher. They've allowed just 266.8 yards of offense per game over the past four weeks, though they allowed 346 yards to Matthew Stafford in Week 1, the only elite passing offense they've faced this season.

GAME BREAKDOWN: The Cardinals have question marks at quarterback again. Kevin Kolb (ribs) is questionable after suffering an injury late last week, and John Skelton was shaky (2-for-10, INT) in a relief role last week. Their offensive line continues to struggle desperately, allowing five sacks to Buffalo last week, giving them a league-high 28 allowed on the year. The Vikings struggled to stop Robert Griffin III last week, but they've effectively contained opposing offenses this year. The Vikings had little trouble when hosting the Cards a year ago, beating them 34-10 as Adrian Peterson had 122 of their 172 rushing yards.

GAME BREAKDOWN: The rivalry resumes, though this year the Jets will be without Darrelle Revis to counter New England's passing attack. The Patriots swept the Jets a year ago, including a 37-16 trouncing of Gang Green in Met Life Stadium. The teams were fairly even in offensive yardage (389-378 for New England) but the Pats forced three turnovers, including a pick six. The Jets took advantage of turnovers by the young Colts last week, but likely won't have that luxury against the Pats. While they made mistakes in the penalty department last week (six for 80 yards), New England hasn't had more than two giveaways in a game this year.

GAME BREAKDOWN: The Raiders return home after their best performance of the year, a near miss in Atlanta. Oakland outgained the Falcons 474-286 and intercepted Matt Ryan three times in the 23-20 loss. After cutting back on penalties this year, they were burned by the yellow flags in that game: 12 for 110 yards. The Jaguars come in with the league's worst quarterback and overall offense, ranking last in the NFL in scoring (13.0) and total offense (241.2 yards). They have been slightly better on the road though, where they scored their only win this year (at Indianapolis) and have won three in a row ATS.

GAME BREAKDOWN: Pittsburgh has dominated this rivalry, sweeping the Bengals (SU and ATS) each of the past two seasons. But the Steelers have been terrible on the road this year, dropping all three road games SU and ATS, including to bottom-feeders Tennessee and Oakland. Going back to last year, they've lost four road games in a row SU, and seven straight ATS. They could have both S Troy Polamalu (calf) and OLB LaMarr Woodley (hamstring) back in the lineup. The Bengals have moved the ball effectively this year, but QB Andy Dalton has become a turnover machine (11 through six games), resulting in upset losses each of the last two weeks.

GAME BREAKDOWN: The Lions haven't won SU in Chicago since 2007. They were blown out at Soldier Field a year ago, a game in which the Lions turned it over six times in a 37-13 Bears rout. Detroit's M.O. this year has been to fall behind before opening up the offense and coming back (their two wins were last-second over St. Louis in Week 1, and in OT at Philly last week), but that would be more of a challenge against a Bears defense that gives up few big plays and forces a lot of turnovers. Chicago has two convincing wins at home this year (23-6 over St. Louis and 41-21 over Indy) and has 17 takeaways through five games.

StatFox College Football Power Rating Lines - Week 8

 The StatFox Power Ratings are determined from a formula that is takes into account several key factors, including point margins, difficulty of schedule, team statistics and more. The ratings are typically not as reactive as those you will find elsewhere, and thus prove to be a great long term handicapping tool. Here are the StatFox Power Rating lines and edges for this week's games, with our exclusive home field advantage points built into each home team's rating and corresponding line. Note that the point edge between the Power Rating Line and the actual opening line is denoted for the team with the edge. Use the W/L column to keep track of the winners and losers.

StatFox Dave

StatFox Dave is one of the original four founders of StatFox and over the years has been renowned for his handicapping prowess in all sports. Anyone who signed up for our NBA postseason Best Bets certainly knows that to be true, as Dave racked up an astounding 66% success rate on Best Bets during the NBA postseason. Dave has been unbelievable in his college picks over the past four weeks, going 47-15-2 ATS (76%) overall. He's also 57% ATS on his Best Bets, last week predicting, "NIU (-12) takes Buffalo to the woodshed in this easy cover." Northern Illinois won, 45-3.

StatFox Gary

StatFox Gary joined the StatFox and Platinum Sheet staff prior to the 2010 football season, and subscribers were certainly happy he did: He proceeded to post a 55% success rate on NFL Best Bets in his "rookie" season. Gary also has a knack for college over/unders, finishing the bowl season 4-1 in his Best Bet totals. Gary nearly put forth a second straight perfect week in Best Bets, going 3-1 ATS, with the only defeat occurring when Vanderbilt dropped a wide-open TD pass in the final minute that would've given him a push. Gary is 13-10 ATS (57%) in Best Bets in 2012.

StatFox Scott

StatFox Scott serves as Managing Editor for Stat-Fox and Platinum Sheet and the Edge Football Preview Guide, and is coming off a two-year college football run in which his Best Bets success rate was 56%. Scott has the knowledge and courage to put his money on any FBS game, this week urging bettors to wager on a 1-5 Rice Owls team, stating, "As bad as Rice has been, they'll be the best opponent UTSA has faced all season after five straight wins against South Alabama, New Mexico State and a trio of non-FBS teams." The final score: Rice 34, UTSA 14.

StatFox Brian

A featured writer on StatFox.com and for Platinum Sheet, StatFox Brian has yet to suffer a losing season of Platinum Sheet Best Bets in either college football, NFL, college basketball or NBA since coming on board in 2010. His most recent success earlier this calendar year was a 49-30 ATS record (62%) on college basketball Best Bet picks. Brian went 3-for-4 in his college football Best Bets this week. Two of the games he won with the greatest of ease, as Oklahoma (-3.5 vs. Texas) and Wisconsin (+2 at Purdue) prevailed by a combined 66 points.

StatFox Forecaster

By weighing several key factors, including recent statistical averages, schedule strength and home-field advantage, the StatFox Forecaster has proven to be an extremely successful long-term handicapping tool. It's most accurate once a season is underway, as evident by an ATS success rate of 61% (123-79-6) on all 2011 NFL regular-season games played between September 25 and the end of the calendar year. Forecaster continues to be on the mark in college football, posting a winning ATS mark on featured games so far in 2012.

Statfox College Football Outplay Factor Rating Lines - Week 8

 The Outplay Factor Ratings made famous by StatFox are a great Team Strength Indicator as they provide a quantitative measure of how teams are outplaying (+ value) or being outplayed by (- value) their opponents. They are determined by a complicated formula that takes into account a team's points for/against as compared to how their previous opponents have fared. Here are the StatFox Team Outplay Factor Ratings and the corresponding game lines derived from them. Note that the point edge between the Outplay Factor Rating Line and the actual opening line is denoted for the team with the edge. Use the W/L column to keep track of the winners and losers.
